I'll order it on Monday, so it'll arrive late August. I have a couple other projects in mind, and we'll have to see how all this will pan out. To keep things simple, I've agreed to use only VCI transmission software for the time being. I won't have a PC based display, and it's all wired in. So any differences, or comparisons, or suggestions to the service, you'll have to reach me through on the Phone at 281-857-6114. Or if you want to come out here, bring some money, I'll let you use my vehicle to test drive and evaluate the product. That's the plan so far, but I haven't made a final decision yet. I got a 24" slim flat panel display for free and had a Windows system installed at my house. It's the screen that most people use for diagnostics. The VCI is a great vehicle but I want to have a better monitor. I've decided to go with the OEM screen for the time being.
